Brandmark, a Wise company, is an industrial label supplier providing unique label solutions designed specifically for the most demanding applications. We use robust materials and high performance adhesives combined with creative converting for product identification and tracking. Our extensive manufacturing capabilities and comprehensive knowledge of raw materials help you solve the most challenging label problems.

Industrial labels help manufacturers to effectively track products along the entire supply chain. At Brandmark, our industrial labels can be designed to satisfy most any requirement, including machine-applied processes, unusual application surfaces, and various temperatures or weather conditions. Our labels adhere to anything from cardboard boxes and pallets to tires, power equipment, and chemical containers. We can finish your labels on rolls, in fan-folded packs, or in sheets. We produce the right label for you, from custom blanks for thermal transfer in-house printing to 4-color process with overlaminates and unique adhesives.

Brandmark strives to be your leading partner by providing all the support and services you need to sell more labels. Our customer service and technical support teams are standing by to help you find the right solution for your application.
